Subject: This is our chance

Dear Friend,

They're at it already. We just learned that my two liberal Democrat opponents in the race for Superintendent of Public Instruction are purchasing TV and radio time for the June Primary.

This office has been held by a self-proclaimed Democrat for more than 27 years. It is time we return Republican values to the Department of Public Instruction!

I am so proud to have received the North Dakota Republican Party's letter of support at the 2012 State Convention. Today in these crucial early stages of the campaign, I need your help to counter the ads my opponents are about to unleash.

Will you help me get my message out right now by donating $25, $50, $250, $500, $1,000 or any amount you can afford?

Out of the three candidates in this race, only the top two finishers will advance after the June 12 Primary. I am the only Republican in this race, and you and I know we cannot afford to have two Democrats advance to the November ballot.

I have spent my entire adult life working hard - professionally and in volunteer and appointed positions - on behalf of our state's students and educators. I am prepared to bring my energy, enthusiasm and 20-plus years of experience working in education at the federal, state and local levels to the Department of Public Instruction.

These first few weeks of the campaign are critical. That's why any amount you can contribute, whether it's $25 or $250, will make such a difference.

Please visit my website at www.kirstenbaesler.com where you learn more about my campaign and get involved at the grassroots level. I also encourage you to contact me any time at baesler.kirsten@gmail.com.

Thank you for helping me take North Dakota's public education to a new level. At the heart of it, it's all for our children.

Warm regards,

Kirsten Baesler

Kirsten Baesler

P.S. Your generous contribution of $25, $250, or even $500 will go a long way in securing a better education, and future, for children in North Dakota!

Governor Susana Martinez
Office of the Governor
490 Old Santa Fe Trail, Room 400
Santa Fe, NM 87501

Dear Governor:

As Chairman of the Fort Sill Apache Tribe, the successors to the Chiricahua and Warm Springs Apaches, I would like to request a meeting with you as soon as possible on issues surrounding the Tribe's economic development plans on its reservation at Akela, New Mexico. Over the course of the Tribe's repatriation to and establishment of the Tribe's reservation in its aboriginal homeland in New Mexico, we have had to deal with a number of misconceptions regarding the events that have led up to the present situation.

One of these misconceptions is that the Tribe at some time in some way has agreed never to engage in gaming on the reservation at Akela. This is not the case. We have recently delivered documents to your staff that detail the actual history and events surrounding the transfer of the Akela land into to the U.S. Government in trust for the benefit of the Tribe. As this issue has now been specifically addressed in the media, we need to brief you on the actual history of that issue, among others.

Also, as you know, the Tribe has initiated the Section 20 two-part process under IGRA which would qualify the Tribe for gaming on its reservation. It is the intent of the Tribe to pursue this two-part process in which the Secretary of the Interior will contact you to seek input into the project and implementing a Class III gaming operation under the existing New Mexico Tribal-State Class III Gaming Compacts, similar to other New Mexico tribes and pueblos.

Thank you very much for your consideration on this matter. I look forward to meeting with you as soon as possible. I will make myself available for a meeting at your earliest convenience.

Sincerely,

Jeff Haozous
Chairman
Fort Sill Apache Tribe

Tri-State petitions Federal Court to review EPA rule
Flawed MATS regulations threaten affordability of electric power

Not-for-profit wholesale power supplier Tri-State Generation and Transmission Association today filed a legal challenge to the Environmental Protection Agency's costly Mercury and Air Toxic Standards (MATS) Rule.

The association's lawsuit asks a federal appeals court in Washington D.C. to review the rule, which is not lawful under the Clean Air Act and will significantly increase electricity costs.

"The EPA's MATS rule harms rural electric consumers," said Ken Anderson, executive vice president and general manager of Tri-State. "The rule was developed in a flawed regulatory process, will impose substantial and unwarranted costs on existing plants, and will effectively prohibit the construction of new coal plants."

Tri-State responsibly generates reliable and affordable electricity for its member electric cooperatives and complies with increasingly rigorous state and federal laws. Tri-State's coal-fired power plants are low emitters of mercury and comply with stringent state mercury limits in Colorado and New Mexico. In fact, Tri-State's Nucla Station in western Colorado is listed by the EPA in the database to establish the rule as having the lowest mercury emissions of any coal-fired plant in the U.S.; yet the plant will still be burdened with additional regulatory requirements under the rule.

"The EPA overstates the benefits of the rule and underestimates the costs," said Anderson. "The rule is unworkable and has an unrealistic timeframe to implement."

The rule is one of the most expensive regulatory programs in U.S. history. A comprehensive analysis by National Economic Research Associates found that the MATS rule and other finalized and pending EPA regulations for power plants using coal could cost an average of 183,000 jobs every year from 2012-2020 and increase electricity and other energy prices by $170 billion.

"This rule, along with other recent EPA regulatory actions, appears geared to taking coal off the table to help meet our nation's electricity needs," said Anderson. "We need all options, including coal, to ensure affordable, reliable and responsible power."

Based in the Denver suburb of Westminster, Tri-State supplies power to 18 member electric cooperatives in Colorado, 12 in New Mexico, eight in Wyoming and six in Nebraska, which in turn provide electricity to nearly 605,000 meters or a population of approximately 1.5 million people.

Brew Barron

*President and Chief Executive Officer
Constellation Energy Nuclear Group, LLC*

Brew Barron is the president and chief executive officer of Constellation Energy Nuclear Group, LLC (CENG). On November 6, 2009, Constellation Energy and EDF Group completed the joint venture of CENG. CENG owns and operates Calvert Cliffs Nuclear Power Plant in Lusby, MD, Nine Mile Point Nuclear Station in Scriba, NY, and R.E. Ginna Nuclear Power Station near Rochester, NY. Barron is responsible for the financial performance of the joint venture through management of the sale of energy and capacity from the five nuclear units, including associated hedging activities.

Barron has nearly 40 years of experience in the energy industry. He joined Constellation from Duke Energy where he held the position of group executive and chief nuclear officer. He joined Duke Power in 1972 as an engineer at the Oconee Nuclear Station near Seneca, SC, and subsequently held positions of increasing responsibility at all three Duke Energy Nuclear Power Stations.

From 1994 through 1996, he served as vice president and general manager of nuclear operations at the Department of Energy's Idaho National Engineering as part of the Duke Engineering & Services, LLC, subsidiary. He is past chairman of the board of governors for Duke, Cogema, Stone & Webster, LLC, a joint venture formed to design, construct and operate a mixed-oxide fuel fabrication facility for the Department of Energy.

Barron has been a registered professional engineer in North Carolina, South Carolina and Idaho. He has held a Nuclear Regulatory Commission-issued reactor operator license for Oconee Nuclear Station and a senior reactor operator license for McGuire Nuclear Station, both owned and operated by Duke Power. He is past chairman of both CENG and the Executive Committee of the Westinghouse Owners Group. He is a member of the American Nuclear Society where he served as chairman of the reactor operations division and chairman of the Piedmont-Carolinas Section. Barron is also a member of the accreditation board of the National Academy for Nuclear Training, the Department of Energy Nuclear Energy Advisory Committee, and the Nuclear Energy Institute Executive Committee.

Barron earned a Bachelor of Science in nuclear engineering from the University of Virginia. He and his wife, Jacqueline, have 2 daughters and 5 grandchildren. They reside in Baltimore.

Please find attached the following:

1. The Section 20 letter and related documents. (Note: I had mentioned this had been sent to your office, however, it had not. They were expecting me to deliver it pursuant to the cc and I haven't. So, my fault, but here it is.)
2. The tribal resolution on transferring the Akela property into trust, FSABC-2000-19. I believe this is the resolution Frank Baca must be referring to, but it does not make any commitment or promise to never apply for gaming status in the future. In fact, it indicates there are no "current" plans to develop any type of commercial activity on that site" which statement was true at that time.
3. The Agreement of Compromise and Settlement Recitals in Comanche Nation vs. U.S. of 2007 wherein the Fort Sill Apache Tribe was an intervenor. I would particularly call your attention to the recitals in Paragraph 7 of the settlement agreement. Also, note the settlement is not just between the Fort Sill Apaches and the Comanches but also with the United States, Department of the Interior and was signed off on by the U.S. Attorneys office as well. This settlement committed the Fort Sill Apaches to New Mexico for their reservation going forward.
4. Also, just FYI, the DOI letter informing the Fort Sill Apaches of the transfer of the property into trust along with the deed transferring the property to the U.S. government as trustee for the tribe.

I hope these documents clear the picture a bit as to how all of this occurred historically. Please contact me if you have any questions.

Thanks.

Dennis L. Koehl
Senior Vice President and Chief Nuclear Officer

Dennis Koehl is senior vice president and chief nuclear officer for Xcel Energy. He is responsible for activities at Xcel Energy's Prairie Island and Monticello nuclear plants, both located in Minnesota and operated by Northern States Power Co.-Minnesota, an Xcel Energy company.

Koehl joined Nuclear Management Co. in 2004 as site vice president at Point Beach Nuclear Plant in Wisconsin. He came to Xcel Energy in October 2007, as NMC was ceasing operations and before the Prairie Island and Monticello operating licenses were transferred back to NSP from NMC in September 2008.

Koehl has more than 30 years of experience in the nuclear industry, including positions of increasing responsibility at Tennessee Valley Authority's Sequoyah and Watts Bar nuclear plants. He has a diverse background in operations, assessment, engineering and plant performance.

Koehl serves on the board of directors for the Boy Scouts of America Northern Star Council and is vice chairman of the board of directors for Utilities Service Alliance Inc. He also serves as chairman of the Nuclear Strategic Issues Advisory Committee and is a member of the Fukushima Response Steering Group for the Nuclear Energy Institute. He is an executive member of Electric Power Research Institute's Nuclear Power Council.

He earned his Bachelor of Science degree in mechanical engineering from the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md. He also served in the U.S. Navy, aboard the U.S.S. Patrick Henry nuclear-powered submarine.

NUCLEAR ENERGY INSTITUTE

Everett L Redmond II

Everett Redmond is Director, Nonproliferation and Fuel Cycle Policy at the Nuclear Energy Institute. He assumed this role in October 2010. In this role at NEI, he is responsible for industry policy issues related to nonproliferation and the fuel cycle including current and advanced fuel cycles. Prior to assuming this role, he was responsible for regulatory matters related to used fuel storage and transportation. Everett has been with NEI since October of 2006. Prior to joining NEI, Everett was a Principal Engineer at Holtec International and was responsible for the radiological design of their dry cask storage and transportation systems.

Everett holds a Doctor of Philosophy from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Nuclear Engineering (1997). Everett is a member of the American Nuclear Society.

Marvin S. Fertel
President and Chief Executive Officer
Nuclear Energy Institute

Marv Fertel is president and chief executive officer of the Nuclear Energy Institute (NEI) which is the policy organization for the U.S. nuclear industry and represents the industry in addressing generic technical regulatory issues before the Nuclear Regulatory Commission; as well as policy and legislative activities with the Congress and the Executive Branch. NEI has about 350 corporate members in 19 countries.

Mr. Fertel has over 40 years of experience working with the electric utility industry on issues related to designing, siting, licensing and managing both fossil and nuclear plants.

He has worked in executive positions with such organizations as Ebasco, Management Analysis Company and Tenera. In November 1990, he joined the U.S. Council for Energy Awareness as vice president of Technical Programs. With the formation of NEI in 1994, he became NEI's vice president of Nuclear Economics and Fuel Supply. Mr. Fertel was named senior vice president and chief nuclear officer in 2003 and in 2009 he was named President and Chief Executive Officer of NEI.

Bio for Terry Pickens, Xcel Energy

Terry Pickens is currently the Director of Nuclear Regulatory Policy for Xcel Energy at its headquarters in Minneapolis, Minnesota. He is responsible for interfacing with government and non-government organizations that enact, implement or influence policies that impact Xcel Energy's nuclear power plants. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Mechanical Engineering Technology from Southern Illinois University in Carbondale, Illinois and has completed the Energy Services Executive Program at the University of Michigan, School of Business. He began his career in the nuclear industry in 1976 as a project engineer working on Commonwealth Edison's (now Exelon) Dresden and Quad Cities Nuclear Power Plants. He came to Northern States Power in 1983 where he worked as a licensing engineer on the Monticello and Prairie Island Nuclear Power Plants. Since 1983 he has served on multiple industry committees. He chaired the Boiling Water Reactor Owners' Group from June 1986 to June 1987. From 1988 until 1993 he managed the Monticello Lead Plant License Renewal Pilot Project sponsored by the Electric Power Research Institute and the United States Department of Energy. He was with Nuclear Management Company (NMC) from 2000 until 2006 where he managed NMC's Government and Regulatory Affairs efforts. He returned to his current position with Xcel Energy in February 2007.

Wayne A. Norton is an internationally recognized leader in the Nuclear Project management, environmental remediation and commercial nuclear decommissioning fields. Mr. Norton has most recently led the completion of the decommissioning of three New England nuclear power plants. Mr. Norton has over 25 years of professional experience in construction management, contracts management, and senior project management. Of his 21 years of nuclear power plant project management experience, the last 15 years have been associated with commercial nuclear decommissioning and Dry Fuel Storage management. During his decommissioning experience, Mr. Norton has spent the last 9 years in positions of President, Chief Nuclear Officer (CNO), and Chief Executive Officer (CEO). At present, Mr. Norton serves as President and CEO of Connecticut Yankee and Yankee Rowe and as CNO of Maine Yankee. While leading each of these decommissioning projects to completion, the work under Mr. Norton's leadership was safely performed and completed on schedule and on budget. Mr. Norton has managed billions of dollars of nuclear project under the regulatory structure of the FERC and various State Public Utilities Commissions and has done so without a single cost disallowance. Mr. Norton continues to play a key role in the resolution of the industries disputes with the Department of Energy (DOE) regarding spent nuclear fuel and high level waste liabilities at the three Companies.

In addition to his present responsibilities at the 3 Yankee Companies, Mr. Norton has been providing a variety of consulting services to the nuclear industry in the US and Internationally since January 2007. Mr. Norton has provided diverse consultation services that have included international decommissioning project "peer reviews" for the IAEA; provided consulting services in a foreign nuclear asset sales and acquisition effort; provided consultation for a nuclear "new build" reactor technology selection effort for several US utilities and continues to provide consultation for a proposed US "New Build" commercial nuclear construction project.
